cheerful mood and conversed freely. Supper was then served, and not long after Mr. Blaine retired. The programme for to-morrow depends very much upon the weather. Mr. Blaine is very fond of driving, and expressed a desire yesterday to see more of the celebrated drivewave and parks of Chicago. He will probably receive many more visitors to-morrow, though the number will be limited, for he is still weary from the effects of campaigning in Indiana.

The Blackguard Goald Disgusts an Audience.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 15 .- Mr. Edwin F. Gould, said to be from the home of our presidential candidate, delivered a speech here in our city on Saturday night, Oct. 13, 1888, in the Democratic wigwam, and it was said by the majority of the audience to be unfit and unsavory to listen to. 'The building was well filled with town and country people, and before the close of the speech the Hon. F. G. Babcock, who presided over the meeting, left the stage, also the glee club that furnished the music, and the audience dispersed until there were not over one hundred and fifty people left in the room.

Hewitt and Cleveland. NEW YORK, Oct. 18. - Mayor Hewitt, speaking about his feeling toward President Cleveland, said to-day: "There is no coolness between President Cleveland and myself or Mr. Edward Cooper. I see no reason why I should not go to see Mr. Cleveland or why he should not call on me. He has repeatedly invited me to dine with him, but on every occasion I have been sick and sould not accept."

The President Will Visit New York. WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 .- It is stated on good authority that the President has promised to visit New York before the electica and review a parade of business men of that city, but it is not his intention to make a speech.

THE QUARRELING DOCTORS.

Mackenzie Denies Certain Assertions Made by Professor Virchow and Dr. Waldeyer. London, Oct. 18 .- Dr. Mackenzie has issued a statement refuting the assertions of Professor Virchow and Dr. Waldeyer. He says the abscess was a diffuse one, and that, as usual in The case of dying persons, the secretion of pus was arrested during the last few days. He was not surprised that Professor Virchow failed to recognize the abscess, which did not have a hard limiting wall. In a normal condition. He says that, owing to the insertion of bismuth and wool, it was imcossible to judge their condition. Dr. Hovell corroborates the statements of Dr. Mackenzie as to the existence of an abscess. He adds that the breast and the lower portion of the traches were not examined.

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—The National Zeitung says that Drs. Bergmann and Gerhardt have declined to adopt the suggestion to have the public prosscuter indict Dr. Mackenzie and the German sublisher of his book for libel. They declare that Dr. Mackenzie's statements will recoil on himself, and they are therefore anxious that his book be given the fullest publicity. Professor Virehow, in an interview with a representative of the Vessische Zeitung, protested against Dr. Mackenzie's attempt to throw the responsibility spon him. He said he had not been summoned to see Emperor Frederick. The autopsy, he added, showed that the disease was more deeply seated than the tumor from which Dr. Mackentie removed the particle for examination.

The police of Berlin have seized all English and French copies of Dr. Mackenzie's book. Professor Bergmann does not object to fighting a duel with Dr. Mackenzie. Dr. Mackenzie denies the statement that Empress Frederick saw proofs of his book before it was published.

Salisbury's Unpleasant Task. LONDON, Oct. 18 .- The German embassador to-day called on Lord Salisbury and inquired as to the truth of the report that Prince Alexander, of Battenburg, and Princess Victoria, of Prussia, were to be married shortly at Windsor. Lord Salisbury declared that he had never heard any such report, but promised to make inquiry into the matter. It is evident that the relations between the British and Prussian courts are becoming critical, and that the English Premier will have his hands full in making explanations and smoothing matters between the Queen and her headstrong grandson.

Sensational Coartship and Marriage. STANDING ROCK, Dak., Oct. 18 .- The people of the agency have been greatly surprised by a sensational courtship, culminating in marriage here yesterday. Last week a small party of Eastern gentlemen who were scouring this section on a hunting and pleasure expedition, lost their bearings and wandered to the agency, where the Indians gave them the necessary information in regard to their route. In the company was Henry Ashburton, a wealthy young man of Leeds, England, While preparing dinper in their tent the first day after their arrival. a daughter of one of the leading chiefs entered. approached the astonished young Briton, threw her arms around his neck, repeatedly kissing him. that she was of Indian parentage.

Shoe Lockout at St. Louis.

Sr. Louis, Oct. 18.-The Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company, of this city, has locked out 450 men, owing to trouble with employes in the lasting department. The men claim they were reduced from 7 to 5 cents for lasting, with the understanding that they were to handle only cheap shoes at that figure, and that the company has been putting in the better grades at the same figures. The company admits the reduction, but denies the statement that they have attempted to secure anything more than

Hon. John M. Butler Gives Some Solid Facts About Free-Trade Democracy.

J. H. Claypool Ventilates the Management of the State Institutions-Foraker at the Battle-Ground-Meetings Elsewhere.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

RICHMOND, Oct. 18 .- Hon. John M. Butler was greeted with a magnificent audience tonight, and it was rewarded with one of the very best speeches of the campaign. It was filled with facts all the way through, free of anecdote or attempt at oratory, and yet it was not dry. It was as enthusiastically received as though replete with humor and cunning sayings. He arraigned the Democratic party as one wedded to free trade from its origin, as pledged to it to-day, despite its protests since it heard from Oregon and the September States, and he said it was as defiant of law, as subservient to the interests of the South and is antagonistic to Northern free labor as it ever has been since it put its foot on the sacred Missours Compromise and precipitated the country into war. He devoted the greater part of his speech to the tariff and to the false position of Mr. Mills on the stump in support of the hill he pretends to be the author of, at the same time showing the sectional features of the bill. Instead of it making an average reduction of 5 per cent., as Mr. Mills claims, he showed it to be a reduction of $51,000,000 on $217,000,000, or 23 per cent, and cited instances where the reductions counted up to twice that amount. On behalf of protection he rebutted the theory that it was a tax paid by the consumer, with argument to show it was a charge exacted of the foreigner to enter our market, when it is impossible for him to add this to his price and compete with home prices. The Republican theory of protection, he said, had three elements, and could be told in three lines: First, to let in free everything we cannot raise or

J. H. Claypool, candidate for joint Representative, which went comprehensively over all the issues of the campaign, he spoke of State matters particularly, as follows:

"No matter what any man's belief may be in regard to free trade or protection, there are bundant reasons why no man who understands the situation of affairs here in Indiana, can conscientiously vote the Democratic State ticket, and by that act indorse and approve the record of that party in this State since 1884. It embraces a series of crimes, debaucheries, and partisan legislation that are a disgrace alike to the State and civilization. Just think of it. The inmates of that great institution provided for the unfortunate insane people of the State, at Indiaaapolis, being fed on rotten pork, and wormy butter, for no telling how long, in order that a lot of Democratic inhuman brutes might steal a portion of the funds appropriated for the support of this institution; and those men still in office, and in charge of that institution, although their guilt has been established for over a year. And just so long as the Democratic party remains in power in Indiana, this state of affairs will continue to exist, as it is the established policy of the Democratic party in Indiana to reward the men who do the dirty work of the party with the management and control of the State's benevolent institutions. Humanity and decency alike demand that these institutions shall forever be divorced from politics, and this the R-publican party proposes to do at the very first opportunity. The people should not forget how the State was robbed of thousands of dollars by that eminent Democratic politician, Jack Howard, late warden of the southern prison-always a large contributor to the Democratic campaign fund-and that this Democratic thief has never been even indicted for his crime, because he lives in a Democratic county and Democratic officials refuse to prose cute him. It is also a fact that during the time this man Howard was warden of the prison, convicts were punished in a most brutal and inhuman manner, often resulting in death. No greater outrage was ever perpetrated on a free people than the infamous gerrymander of our State in 1885 for legislative purposes, which disfranchised about one-fourth of the Republican voters of the State, and which was passed with the hope of making the Indiana Legislature solidly Democratic for the next fifty years or so. So grossly unjust was this measure, that Hon. Rufus Magee, a leading Democratic Senator at the time.

refused to obey the party lash, denounced the bill as an outrage on common decency, and warned his party on the floor of the Senate against resorting to such high handed measures to retain control of the State; yet every Demoerat in the Legislature but one or two voted for it, and a Democratic Governor, I. P. Gray, approved it, expecting through its iniquities to be himself landed in the United States Senate. As though there had not been enough dirt in Indiana up to date by Democratic party, to cap the climax, as it were, and outdo the party record, the Democratic members of the last Legthugs, tally-sheet forgers and election fixers. resident in Indianapolis, organized a mob and by means of violence, in disregard of the decision of the Supreme Court, prevented the lawfully elected Lieutenant-governor of the State from presiding over the Senate of Indiana. "Add to these the tally-sheet forgeries of Coy, Bernhamer, and others, by which it was sought to elect a Democratic criminal judge in Marion county, and for which two of the crim inals are now in the penttentiary, and you have before you the most prominent points in the record of the Democratic party in Indiana. It is a record that needs no comments, it speaks

An Ovation to Private Joe Fifer. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Oct. 18 .- The greatest Republican or Democratic rally ever held in Jacksonville, occurred to-day. It was a stupendous affair. The reception of private Joe Fifer was one grand ovation, such as is accorded but few men. He was met at the depot by the reception committee with bands and drum corps, and hundreds of mounted men, who cheered every step from the depot to the hotel. His personal escort was some 200 old soldiers, with whom he marched to the hotel on foot through the muddy streets, amid the greatest enthusiasm. On reaching the stand the vast crowd gathered around him and he was compelled to shake hands with hundreds. He reviewed the day parade in which were hundreds of old soldiers in solid column, cheering "private Joe." At 2 P. M. five thousand people gathered underneath and around the great tent or tabernacle, and listened to one of the best speeches he has made during the canvass. He was cheered at almost every sentence, and such enthusiasm has never been seen in any canvass as was manifested here to-day. He was followed by Hon. S. P. Ray, Gen. P. W. Pavey, and others. The various glee clubs created the wildest enthusiasm with their songs of jubilee. At the grand stand, at the park, Col. D. P. Dyer, of St. Louis, spoke to a vast audience. There have been no less than ten thousand people here to-day and to-night. Springfield sent 1,500 men for the night parade, and Decatur some five hundred, while all the towns surrounding sent large uniformed clubs. The torch-light procession was the greatest ever seen in the city, some eix thousand men being in line. They were reviewed by private Joe Fifer and the other distinguished gentlemen amid great enthusiasm.

A Trick That Worked the Wrong Way.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. JEFFERSONVILLE, Oct. 18. - The Democrate in this end of the State are compelled to resort to trickery to induce people to come out and hear their free-trade speakers. Posters were put up in Charlestown, a few days ago, announcing a joint discussion to take place there next Saturday night between R. Dailey, editor of the News, a Democratic paper of this city, and "R. O'Day Lee," a young Irish Republican of New York. The Republicans of Charlestown have arranged for no such discussion, and it does not require a microscope to discover that R. O'Day Lee and R. Daile; are one and the same. and that the Democratic editor acknowledges his inability to get an andience. A similar scheme, which resulted more disastrously for the Democrate, was planted more disastrously for the Democrate, was planted for Sellersburg, last night, but the Republicats of that village set a trap for the "unterrified," and they were beautifully taken in. It was announced through the Democratic press that the Hon. Mr. Bell and Major Calkins would have a joint discussion there last night. Of course, no such discussion had been arranged. but the Republicans were ready for them. A Sellersburg Republican slipped down to this city and notified Col. James Keigwin, who was on hand with Col. Sam McKee, of Louisville. When Bell finished addressing a large crowd which had been attracted to the place through curiosity to hear a joint discussion, Colonel Mc-Kee took the floor, and after paying his respects to the Mills bill, jumped on to Bell, who turned out to be R. Dailey, and tore his argument to Governor Foraker at the Battle-Ground. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Oct. 18 .- The steady down-pour of rain all day, cut down the attendance at the Republican rally at the Battleground. Despite the soaking rain, four or five thousand people assembled in the tabernacle to hear Governor Foraker, who did not arrive until 2 o'clock. The Governor referred to the rebel-flag order, attacked the Fort Wayne speech of Judge Thurman, and pronounced the Mills bill the first step toward the destruction of protection. In the course of his addres some one called out to the Governor: "Tell us about the rebel flage." "Well, we've got them yet and we are going to keetp them, and Cleveland has found it out," replied the speaker. Robert T. Lincoln, Colonel Dow, of Georgia, and private Ira J. Chase also spoke, and the great Tippecance rally of 1888 was closed.

General Hovey and Others at Wabash.

special to the Indianapolis Journal. WABASH, Oct. 18 .- This has been a Republican day in Wabash. It was the intention to have a grand basket pienie, with several prominent speakers, but the steady rain caused a change of programme. The opera-house was filled this afternoon to listen to the speeches by Gen. Alvin P. Hovey and Corporal Tanner, of New York. Both speakers were well received. This evening the opera-house was packed to hear speeches by Hon. Geo. C. Hazleton, a member of Congress from Missouri, and Hon. John L. Griffiths, candidate for Reporter of the State Supreme Court. Music was furnished by the Hazen Glee Club. Mr. Griffiths made many happy hits which were received with wild ap-

Rev. B. F. Morgan Discusses Temperance. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

CARTHAGE, Oct. 18.—Rev. B. F. Morgan, pastor of the local M. E. Church, addressed the Republican Club and a large audience on Tuesday evening, at the capacions pavilion. Rev. Moran, himself an earnest Prohibitionist, confined his remarks almost exclusively to the temperance question as it figures in polities. He proceeded to show how the third party could not hope to succeed on the line they had laid out, and that the annihilation of the liquor traffic must of necessity come through the party that has the disposition and the power to bring about this much-desired end. It was one of the most satisfactory speeches we have yet had.

Griffin and Bishop at Salem.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SALEM, Oct. 18 .- Charles F. Griffin, Repubhean candidate for Secretary of State, this afternoon delivered the best speech heard at this place this campaign thus far. He is a fluent and forcible speaker, and his eloquent remarks did good service for the party. He spoke especially on State issues, and held the audience for two hours and a balf. At night Hon. D. T. Bishop, of Kentland, delivered a most excellent speech to an audience of 600 people. A large torchlight procession paraded the streets previous to the speech. Washington county Republicans are working hard for the success of the party.

Rev. Bernard Kelly at Greencastle,

Special to the Indianapolis Journal GREENCASTLE, Oct. 18 -- Rev. Bernard Kelly, of Topeka, Kan., delivered a forcible and logical address to the people here last night. Considering other attractions, quite a large audience greeted him. His manner of delivery and clear illustration, with facts and figures, were very impressive and convincing. Following him came Harry Bowser, a graduate of DePauw, class 1888, in a well-timed speech, which was very favorably received. Mr. Bowser is well known here, and quite a large number of friends and students were out to Jubilee Meeting at Madison.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Madison, Oct. 18.-The Republicans to-night held a big jubiles-meeting, crowding Odd fellows' Hall. The glee club sang several stirring. patriotic selections. Eloquent addresses, eulogistic of Harrison, Hovey and the Republican party, were delivered by Department Commander Vanosdol, of the G. A. R.; Rev. I. N. Bray (colored); Representative Linck, Dr. Forshee, Prosecutor Bear, and others. Mr. Linck made strong points against the infamous Demo cratic gerrymander, which virtually disfranchises this and other Republican counties.

State Officers Give Harrison a Big Majority. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WABASH, Oct. 18 .- Bruce Carr, Auditor of State, was in this city to-night. He has made a thorough canvass of the State, and says that it can be safely put down as giving 9,000 majority for Harrison. He believes that Harrison will lead the State ticket, as State pride will cut a considerable figure. Professor LaFollette, candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction, who is very conservative, has made an estimate by counties, which shows a clear majority of 12,000 for Harrison.

Ron, Joseph G. Cannon at Mattoon. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

MATTOON, Ill., Oct. 18.-Hon. Joseph G. Cannon arrived from Cincinnati this evening, and to-night, at the opera-house, he delivered a very forcible and convincing speech upon the campaign issues, to a large and attentive audience. His exceriation of the present administration for its many short-comings in increasing the public expenditures and failing to reduce the surplus was cutting in the extreme, and he dealt only in facts of record. Mr. Cannon speaks at Trills to-morrow.

Meetings in Decatur County. Special to the Indianapolis Journal

GREENSBURG, Oct. 18 .- Despite the heavy rain Tuesday night, a large audience beard, Judge Jere M. Wilson, of Washington, at the rink, in an able address on the tariff. A poplar pole was raised, and plenty of good sweet cider was a feature of the occasion.

Gen. Thomas H. Nelson at Xenia.

Exciting Broadsword Contest. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18 .- The broadsword contest at Hamilton Park, this afternoon, between Byran Lynn, of this city, a member of the Connecticut National Guard, and formerly a nember of the Prince of Wales Hussars and the Egyptian Camel Corps, and Xavier Orlofski, of the German Black Hussars, for $200 a side and gate receipts, developed so much bad blood that Chief of Police Bollman interfered and stopped the fight. When Lynn rode up and saluted Orlofski, the latter retaliated by giving Lynn a bad cut across the wrist. This made the crowd very indignant, and the police had hard work to keep them from mobbing the German. The contest proceeded in a very exciting manner, the men slasbing as if determined to disable each fight, and the score stood: Lynn, 8 points; Orlofski, 6 points. When the men came together in the next bont. Lynn greatly surprised the German by unhorsing him. At this the latter became enraged, and rushing up to Lynn struck him across the sword arm. The crowd then made a break for Orlofski, and the police had a lively time to keep them off. When it was partially restored to order the chief of police stopped the fight. After a long squabble between the judges and contestants, the referee decided the score to be: Lynn, 9 points; Orlofski, 5 points, and ordered the fight continued at some future time. circular which has ruined his business, and he

Correspondence Country Gentlemen. Until within a few years, not one farmer in a hundred in Southern Ohio sowed any other variety of clover than the common red, but for some years past the mammoth or pea-vine clover has been grown extensively, and within the last three years the alsike has been sown to some extent, and will, I believe, be sown largely in the future. I have sown both these varieties. and believe that there is a legitimate place for them in our farming, and propose to tell under what circumstances I would advise farmers to sow them. I believe, when the main object of sowing clover is to increase the fertility of the soil, that the mammoth is the best variety to sow. It makes a much heavier growth, and shades the land more perfectly than the common red, and furnishes more haulm to plow down. It is not so good for hay as is that of coarser growth, and more likely to be damaged by lodging; yet this can be said in its favor, that it will give nearly double the quantity, and as it is cut nearly a month later, it is a better season to cure it, and I have had some of the most profitable bay crops I ever made from this variety of clover-three tons of cured hay to the acre, which fed out as satisfactorily as any bay

I ever had. In a dry summer this will make a most satisfactory crop, for it will get a start in the spring, which shades the ground and protects the roots and it will make a very heavy growth and still stand up, and can be cured out perfectly. In exceedingly wet seasons it will make a very heavy growth and lodge, and then turn up and make a second growth and will make very poor hay; and it is best then to cut it for seed, for the machine can be set to cut high and leave a large amount of the straw on the land to be plowed under. This clover seeds in the first crop, and makes a heavier yield of seed than the common red. As far as my observation goes, I estimate that it will yield about onefourth more, averaging four bushels of seed to the scre when the other averages three, and I have known from five to eight bushels grown to the acre. This clover suits the system of farming here in the Miami valley where corn and wheat are the great staples, for with our corn-fodder and immense straw stacks we need but little hay, and it is almost impossible for the farmer who has a large corn crop to cultivate, to spare the time in early June to cut twenty to thirty acres of clover, and make it into hay. Then a clover sod, if it can be plowed early, makes the best preparation for wheat, but if we leave the second crop to make seed, it is usually too late to break the field for wheat by the time the seed is cured enough to thresh. With the mammoth clover nothing needs to be done until after wheat harvest, when it can be cut and threshed early in August.

Wire Fences. Iowa State Register.

There is considerable damage done to stock, and especially horses, by barbed wire fences. No matter how cruel the fence may be, it will never be abandoned. It has come to stay. Hence our study must be how to obviate its objectionable features, rather than what to substitute in its place. A ditch on each side, with the aid of an embankment under the fence, if well and effectually done, would prevent most of the injury to stock. After the posts are set a few furrows could be plowed on each side, turning the dirt to the fence. Then with shovels throw up the loose dirt. Then plow deeper and throw up again. In this way the lower wire can be omitted, which will pay for the work of ditching and banking. This ditch and embankment will last for years. The sight of the ditch and embankment will prevent stock, and especially horses from rushing heedlessly on the fence. Nor can they stand and reach over or lean against the fence. It will be almost perfect protection to the fence and to the stock, and really cost nothing. Try it and quit complain-
